

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

PREFACE.

It is very difficult to meet with pictorial illustrations of the Life of Shakespeare that belong to even a small antiquity. With the exception of two or three found in periodicals, and which are sufficiently common, any of the kind which were executed more than seventy years ago are of exceedingly rare occurrence. The Bodleian Library, so rich in English topography, has none ; while in that enormous literary warehouse, the British Museum, there are hardly any of the slightest interest.

There are, indeed, only two large and important collections of drawings and engravings illustrative of Shakespearean biography. One of these, that now preserved at the Birth-Place, was formed by the late Mr. W. O. Hunt and myself in years gone by, when we ransacked Stratford-upon-Avon and its neighbourhood for every relic of the kind. The other, that now at Hollingbury Copse, is the result of purchases from other localities. Each collection is, at present, of unique interest, and is likely to remain so. It is not probable that another, of equal value to either, could now be formed.

But although this is not probable, there is no telling what the accidents of discovery may bring forth—in some forgotten portfolio, or in a find revealed by the disturbance of interior plasters. It is only about twelve years since that I purchased from my old friend, Mr. Joseph Lilly, the well-known bookseller of Garrick Street, a volume the inclusion of which, in itself alone, would have conferred a distinction on any such collection as that now briefly calendared. It was a copy of the first edition of Dugdale's Antiquities of Warwickshire, 1656, which had belonged to Richard Greene of Lichfield, a person who was intimately connected with Stratford-upon-Avon, and who had illustrated that fine old work with original drawings made by himself and others between the years 1760 and 1769. It was thus that I became possessed of the inestimable earliest representation of the Birth-Place known to exist, and of various sketches executed during that period, all of which are unique and most of extreme interest.

Amongst these and other noticeable articles may be mentioned,—Nos. 1 to 6 and 570 to 577, Fisher's original drawings of the paintings in the Guild Chapel, taken at the time of their discovery in 1804, and valuable as being more accurate than the engraved copies; Nos. 7 to 11, the London Arches of Triumph, 1604; Nos. 17, 18, 75, 150, 151, 155, 207, last century drawings and views of Stratford Church ; Nos. 28, 245, 545, Braun's plan of London, 1574 ; No. 35, Collier's rare plan of Windsor, 1742, showing Herne's Oak ; No. 45, a view of Charlecote, 1722 ; No. 65, Norden's original plan of Middlesex, c. 1593 ; Nos. 67, 666, 1069 to 1071, plans and drawings by John Jordan, a Stratfordian who died in 1809 ; Nos. 193, 737, the earliest known engravings of Shakespeare's Cliff near Dover, sketches by Hollar, c. 1640 ; No. 195, the oldest view of Herne's Oak ; No. 433, an early view of Charlecote ; No. 455, Winter's plan of Stratford, c. 1760 ; No. 506, a view of Stratford bridge, c. 1762 ; No. 563, a ground-plan of Stratford College, temp. Hen. 8, a remarkably curious relic preserved on the cover of a valuable early manuscript of local collections purchased in London at the sale of the Wheler library ; No. 652, a view of Stratford College taken in 1765 ; and No. 979, the rare contemporary engraved portrait of Shakespeare's friend, Lord Southampton. The collection is peculiarly rich in engraved views of the Shakespearean localities, especially in those of the Birth-Place and the Church.

But the gem of my collection is the engraving of Shakespeare by Droeshout, 1623, in its original proof state before it was altered by an inferior hand into the vitiated form in which it has been so long familiar to the public.

This is the earliest engraved portrait of the great dramatist, and differs so materially from the later impressions that it gives a new and more pleasing idea of his features. Here we have the most reliable likeness of Shakespeare in existence, the only one which has not been injuriously tampered with, while, at the same time, the evidences of its genuineness and its antiquity are incontestable. Although it is not likely to be absolutely unique, it is certainly of the most excessive rarity, being the only copy that has yet been noticed.

The present collection is not the result of a mere desire for accumulation. It has been formed with the definite purpose of illustrating the Life of Shakespeare by representations of every morsel that could be found of his own contemporary England,—that is to say, of every object that he himself was likely to have seen. Deeply impressed by the rapidity with which these vestiges were disappearing, I engaged Mr. J. T. Blight, F.S.A., a very accomplished draughtsman, to make sketches in furtherance of this design during the years from 1862 to 1868. Not only was every corner of Stratford-upon-Avon and its neighbourhood explored, but we followed as far as we could the routes known to have been taken by the poet in his various journeys, anxiously searching for remains that could be positively assigned to his own times, and carefully excluding those which had passed through the hands of the modern restorer. A considerable proportion of the sketches then made are of objects that have since been either modernized or destroyed.

A large work on the lines above indicated could hardly fail to be welcome to the student, but, as is so often the case, the time occupied in gathering together the necessary artistic and literary material has practically excluded the collector himself from the opportunity of making an effective use of his accumulations. As our Brighton whip, in the old days of coaching, used to say,—“tempus will fudgit,”—and it has fudgited with me until there is but a little working slice of it left. That slice is insufficient for the due execution of such an undertaking. In a very few years, half a century will have elapsed since my first work on Shakespeare was published, and the termination of that period must also, if I survive, be that of my student work. If the fate of the Archbishop of Grenada is to be escaped, this should be the resolve not merely of those who have traversed the higher walks of literature, but of the lesser votaries who, like myself, lay claim to nothing beyond a capacity for research and the ability of utilizing its products.

Little autobiographical reflections of this kind might anyhow be excused in a privately-printed brochure of very limited circulation, but they are in fact given as the most effectual method of advising a younger enthusiast that he can, without lack of courtesy to the originator, carry out an important design. When such a one arises with the large means that will be requisite to complete the work in a satisfactory manner, the artistic materials catalogued in the following pages cannot fail to prove of essential service.

A HAND-LIST.

1. The Guild Chapel.—The Last Judgment, or the Day of Doom, copied by Fisher in 1804 from paintings discovered on the west side of the wall that divides the nave and chancel. The original drawing, coloured.
2. The Guild Chapel.—Sketch-plans of the north and south sides of the Chancel, showing the situation of the paintings. Also, a coloured sketch of the paintings at the Vicar's door. Fisher del. The originals.
3. The Guild Chapel.—The metrical inscriptions on Earth found in the painting on the west wall of the nave, beneath the death of Becket. The original facsimile made on a large scale by Fisher.
4. The Guild Chapel.—Saint Modwena and St. Edmund the King, paintings in the westernmost niches on the south and north sides of the nave. The original drawings by Fisher.

5. The Guild Chapel.—The Visit of the Queen of Sheba to Solomon, and the victory of Constantine over Mexentius. Fisher's original coloured copies of paintings on the north side of the chancel.
6. The Guild Chapel.—An Angel with admonitory verses, a painting on the west wall and south of the entrance, beneath the representation of the death of Becket. Fisher del.
- 7-11. The Arches of Triumph erected in honor of King James the First at his Majesties entrance and passage through his honourable City of London, upon the 15th day of March, 1603-4. Five of the original very rare contemporary engravings by William Kip, Stephen Harrison, and another, including the one which has the view of London. There is authentic record evidence that Shakespeare was in the procession on this interesting occasion.
12. An exact Prospect of the City of Rochester, taken from Finsbery Windmill by Ja. Collins. Twenty-seven inches in length.
13. The North-West Prospect of the City of Rochester. S. and N. Buck del. et sculpt., March 25th, 1738.

14. The Chancel of Stratford - upon - Avon Church, showing the new timber roof designed by Harvey Eginton, architect, and executed under the direction of the committee of the Royal Shakespeare Club, 1837.
15. A south-east view of the exterior of Stratford Church. A large original drawing in water-colours by J. C. Buckler, 1823.
16. A large view of the western end of the exterior of Stratford Church, c. 1830. Name of artist unknown.
17. A large pen-and-ink drawing of the exterior of Stratford Church, showing the tower and southern side of the western end, executed about the year 1762. This and the next drawing were in Richard Greene's illustrated copy of Dugdale, but it may be suspected, from the style, that they were not executed by him.
18. A large pen-and-ink drawing of the north exterior side of Stratford Church, executed about the year 1762.

19. The Chancel of Stratford Church—the Tomb of Shakspeare—drawn by W. H. Hutchinson, engraved by W. Radclyffe. Published at Birmingham, Dec. 3rd, 1827.
20. The Font at which Shakespeare was baptized. A coloured lithograph by J. Salmon from a drawing by Mrs. Dighton. Published at Stratford-on-Avon, June 1st, 1835.
21. The Mappe of Norfolke, Svffolke, Cambridgeshire, Bedford, Hartford, Buckingham, Oxford, Northampton, Warwick, Huntington and Lecestershires, and Rutland, part of Lincolne, Nottingham, Darbye, Glocester and Barckshires, and of the County of Essex.—This map was engraved at least as early as 1644. The main roads are marked by double lines and the cross-roads by single ones. This is a large and important map.
22. Worcestershire, Described by Christopher Saxton, augmented and published by Iohn Speede, citizen of London, and are there to be solde in Popes-heade Alley against the Exchange by John Sudbury and George Humble. Anno Domini 1610.—Jodocus Hondius cælavit.—No roads marked. There is a plan of Worcester in the right-hand corner.

23. The Road from Gloucester to Coventry, by Iohn Ogilby, Esq., His Majesties Cosmographer, containing 58 miles 2 furlongs, viz.^t, from Gloucester to Cheltenham 9 miles 4, to Winchcomb 7 m., to Campden 11.' 4, to Stratford 11.' 3, to Warwick 8.' 3, to Coventry 10.' 4. 1675.

24. Warwici Comitatus Descriptio, quam primus ædedit Christophorus Saxton anno 1576, nunc de integro correctâ, aucta et restituta ; cui adduntur (præter 60 locos qui priore desiderabantur) singula hundreda, viæ notiores, in vsum itinerantium accomodatae, et alia non infimæ notæ nonnulla, anno 1603.—Near the corner is—Printed and sovld by P. Stent.—This is the earliest map of Warwickshire in which the roads are marked, Stent having, I believe, put or stamped his name as publisher to a plate of older date than the period at which he flourished.

25. The Counti of Warwick, the Shire Towne and Citie of Coventre described. Performed by Iohn Speede and are to by solde in Popes-heade ally against the Exchange by Iohn Sudbury and George Humble. Cum privilegio. 1610.—No roads marked. There is a plan of Warwick in the left-hand corner and one of Coventry in the right.

26. A later edition of the last-mentioned engraving, in which the roads are introduced. Performed by Iohn Speede, and are to be sold by Thomas Bassett in Fleetstreet and Richard Chiswell in St. Pauls Churchyard.
27. The Map of Oxfordshire newly delineated and after a new manner. From Plot's Natural History of Oxfordshire, 1677.—Only the Roman roads marked. This map includes a portion of Berkshire.
28. Londinum Feracissimi Angliæ Regni Metropolis. Braun's plan, 1574. Not coloured.
29. A New Description of Kent divided into the fyue Lathes therof, and subdivided into Baylywicks and Hundredes, with the parishe Churches conteyned within euery of the same Hundredes, All which, for better vnderstandinge, are distinguished with varyetye of coloures : Comprehendinge as well the Cities, the vsuall Market townes and the Portes with their members lying in Kent : As also such of the howses of the Nobylitie and Gentrye as the Plott coulde con-ueniently receaue. Wherin moreover the nature of the soyle, whether playne, hyllye or wooddye, is more diligentlye observed, and the tractes of Ryuers, Rylles and creekes, with the trendinge of the sea-shore, be more naturally described then heretofore it hath ben done.

 By the travayle of Phil: Symonson of Rochester, gent. Printed and sovld by
 P. Stent at the White Horse in giltspure street, 1659.—At the top is a view of Dover by Hollar, and one of Rye by Sir Anthony Van Dyck, the latter showing the sea up to the town.

sketches made for me by Fairholt in 1852.
449. Henley-in-Arden. Blight, 1864.
- 450—454. The Grammar-School, Stratford-on-Avon. Five sketches, consisting of two original ones by Blight, and three others copied by him from drawings by Fairholt.
455. A Plan of Stratford-on-Avon, executed by Samuel Winter about the year 1760.

Only two original plans of Stratford by Winter, the earliest scientific local surveyor, are known to exist, viz, the present one (from the Greene collection) and another in the Birth-Place Library. My copy is clearly by some years the earliest, as it has fewer houses than are noted in the other.

456. The western side of the Birth-Place.
Blight, 1864.

- 457—462. Six large sketches of portions of the Birth-Place. Blight, 1864.
